With a population of roughly 9.6 million, Hungary is a country with a diverse and colourful culture and hectic history. It is a nation settled in the Carpathian Basin for more than two millennia with a territory of 36,000 square miles of mountainous highlands and vast plains.

Marcello Mastroianni, an Italian actor, said of the capital, "Budapest is a quiet city; both her past and future are hidden behind the windows of the old houses. Budapest is like a veiled bride; only after the wedding you'll be able to recognize her beauty." Stroll down the winding, cobblestone streets of the medieval quarters in the Buda side of the capital; enjoy a strong, black coffee in one of the numerous cafés. Walk across Chain Bridge over the mighty silver ribbon of the Danube River. Mingle in bustling crowds on the Pest side. Visit the amazing Parliament building, and see the oldest royal crown in Europe. Pick up a word or two of this exotic language (Magyar).

Rubik's cube, fearless horsemen, medical spas, hot goulash soup, Attila the Hun, handsome macho hussars, Liszt, Bartok, Teller, a wine with a potent kick called "bull's blood," spicy salami, and fiery paprika—all this is Hungary, and there's much more. Lift the veil on this fascinating country, a magical land of friendly people.

ELECTRICITY AND ELECTRICAL OUTLETS

Outlets

Voltage for outlets is 220V. North American voltage is generally 110V. Therefore, you will need a converter for your travels. Adapters will be necessary to adapt your plug into the outlet, but these may not convert the voltage, so both devices are necessary.

Hungary uses a round, 2-prong plug that looks like:
